Give Thanks with a Grateful Heart

Saying thank you to people is very important. I try to instill that in our kids all the time. It's easy to say thank you when people obviously have done something for you, but can we say thank you in less obvious situations?

A Georgia police officer got something that he didn't expect when he gave a young woman a speeding ticket – she gave him a thank you note. This Alpharetta officer had issued the woman a ticket. As he was walking back to his car, she handed him a hand-written note and drove off without saying anything. He read the note, and then shared it with his department and they posted the note on-line. The young lady wrote, "Mr. Officer, shame on me for speeding. Your job is very dangerous. I want you to know that my family and I feel very blessed to be protected by wonderful people like you. So, thank you!" It's one thing to thank police officers when we see them in a social setting;; it's another thing when they are giving us a ticket.

When Mother Teresa was speaking at the National Prayer Breakfast in 1994, she said – "One evening we went out and picked up four people from the street. One of them was in a most terrible condition. I told the sisters, 'You take care of the other people; I will take care of the one who looks the worst.' So, I did for her all that my love could do. I put her in bed, and there was such a beautiful smile on her face. She took hold of my hand as she said only two words: 'Thank you.' Then she died." Mother Teresa said she could not help but examine her own conscience. She asked, "What would I say if I were in her place?" Then she said her answer was very simple. "I would probably have drawn a little attention to myself saying, 'I am hungry, I am dying, I am in pain.' But that poor woman gave more. She died with a grateful love and a smile on her face."

Have you ever thought about saying thank you to God, for this day and for all the things He has done for you this day? What about saying thank you to all the people who make your day the way it is so that you can work, sleep, eat and do so many other activities? When have you said thank you to the garage collector, the power company worker, the gas company, the mortgage company? You have a roof over your head, power, water, and working systems all around; there is someone making it all happen for you and we need to be grateful to be enjoying the benefits.

Saying thank you to a police officer, a saint, a utility company, it will mean a lot to the recipient, but it will mean more to the one who gives it. "Always give thanks for all things." (Eph. 5:20). In this season of Advent, I challenge you, to sit for a moment and write a note of thankfulness to someone who makes your life better. By doing this, you are also saying thank you to God, for all He provides for us. Give thanks with a grateful heart, give thanks.

See you on Sunday,

Misty
